REGRETS:

1.0 Ad-Hoc Meeting Notes

- Attendance not taken
- From OPS Supt Mark Patterson
 - o Since the weekend, changed to an occupation movement instead of a demonstration now
 - o Over the weekend, little to no resistance, few arrests, no injuries reported to demonstrators, public or police resources
 - o With this transition to the occupation movement, OPS will be asking our INTERSECT partners to assist moving forward with assets, intel, resources, etc.
- From OPS Supt Chris Rheume
 - o 50-100 people on the Hill, 100-200 people on the street
 - o Total of approx.. 200 trucks in the downtown core at the moment (50 on Wellington, 40-50 on SJAM, the rest scattered throughout the City core)
 - o Total of approx. 600 personal vehicles in the downtown core (400 on Kent)
 - o Police efforts focused on hardening the core and block space as trucks are leaving so that the space can't be reoccupied
 - o PLT is working with the convoy, pushing them to leave and/or improve traffic flow
 - o Have a tentative agreement to reopen the market
 - o Currently takes 80 resources per shift (x 3 shifts per day) to maintain this posture
 - o OPP, RCMP, Durham, York, Toronto, London have assisted so far, losing York, Toronto and London today, Peel and Hamilton coming to replace and then repeat on the weekend

- Mood is good, contrary to what's being said in the media
- From OPS Supt Mark Patterson
 - 4 ways to move forward:
 - Status quo and manage the situation
 - With PLT, encourage and negotiate with convoy captains to egress
 - Strategic removals of trucks from the inner core along with the collection of Intel on Ros
 - Court injunction
- From OPS DC Steve Bell
 - NCRCC did a great job in managing this demo over the weekend
 - Strategy of keeping groups isolated in pockets throughout the City and keeping a small footprint has worked
 - Working now to keep that footprint as small as possible
 - Now working on managing the group as they keep moving through the streets
 - We are looking at a 1 week to 4 week sustainability plan
 - Supt Rheume is working on the operations plan and Supt Patterson is working on the Intel collection
 - We will be coming to our INTERSECT partners to ask for additional asks/assistance
- From RCMP Supt Mitch Monette
 - For situational awareness, we have been successful in securing safe arrival of parliamentarians on the Hill today
 - Next to address is their departure this evening
- From RCMP Supt Jim Efford
 - We will be extending the NCRCC for as long as needed
- From OPP Supt Craig Abrams
 - OPP has been operating out of Command Centre in Smith Falls
 - Will be moving to Kanata to support OPP members who are currently assisting OPS officers in Traffic/Patrol
 - Will need to continue to pull OPP officers from elsewhere in the province to continue to support
 - 30 members / day
- From Supt Mark Patterson
 - We will be reaching out as we confirm plans.
 - Will likely need to have another meeting to discuss later this week.
